

School Exclusion Policy

Purpose

The purpose of this policy is to set out clear criteria for the exclusion, either temporary or permanent, and the procedures that should be followed in regard to any student situation involving a potential exclusion outcome.

Overview

This policy describes the practice that this school follows regarding the exclusion of a child. It recognises that the seriousness of some situations requires an immediate response that cannot always follow the best practice set out in the policy but, in all situations, the rights of children and parents to a full hearing will be respected.

The decision to exclude a child will only be taken in the following circumstances: ▪ in response to a serious breach of the school's Behaviour Policy, and/or ▪ if allowing the child to remain in school would seriously harm the education or welfare of other persons or the child him/herself in the school.

1. Introduction

1.1. The Executive Director, Headteacher and all staff at IBSB are committed to the provision of a broad and balanced curriculum for all children. They are also responsible for promoting good behaviour and discipline on the part of the whole school community and for securing an orderly and safe environment for children and staff in order to ensure that the curriculum is delivered and children are able to realise their perceived potential.

1.2. The Headteacher has the discretion to deal with children who are displaying challenging behaviour but will do so consistently in the context of the school's Behaviour for Learning Policy.

1.3. The Behaviour for Learning Policy and other relevant documents include a number of different strategies designed to promote the continued inclusion of children into the school. Exclusion is the most drastic step that any school can take because it runs against the school's commitment to inclusion and is out of necessity reserved for the most serious cases.

1.4. The decision to exclude a child must be lawful, reasonable, and fair. Schools have a statutory duty not to discriminate against children on the basis of protected characteristics, such as disability or race. Schools should give particular consideration to the fair treatment of children from groups who are vulnerable to exclusion.

1.5. Under the Equality Act 2010 ("the Equality Act") schools must not discriminate against, harass or victimise children because of their: sex; race; disability; religion or belief; sexual orientation; because of a pregnancy / maternity; or because of a gender reassignment. For disabled children, this includes a duty to make reasonable adjustments to policies and practices.

1.6. In carrying out their functions under the Equality Act means schools must have due regard to the need to:

- eliminate discrimination and other conduct that is prohibited by the Equality Act
- advance equality of opportunity between people who share a protected characteristic and people who do not share it; and foster good relations across all characteristics – between people who share a protected characteristic and people who do not share it.

1.7. Exclusion itself can take many different forms and these may include:

- Time out within the class imposed by the teacher
- Time out in another teacher's class
- Lunchtime exclusion
- Fixed term exclusion
- Permanent exclusion

2. Before Considering Exclusion

2.1. The School recognises that parents/carers are profoundly affected by the exclusion of their child and will work with them closely to ensure that only in rare circumstances will exclusion come as a surprise.

2.2. In most instances parents/carers will have been working with the school to prevent their child from being excluded.

2.3. Children at risk of being excluded are likely to have had a history of disaffection and to have had a variety of contracts (Behaviour Action Plans, Behaviour Support Plans, Pastoral Support Plans) before the question of exclusion arises.

2.4. In formulating these plans support services are likely to have been involved, for example the Student Counselling Service. In all cases the involvement of these services will be with the consent of the parents/carers and in many instances they will have made direct contact.

3. The Executive Director's/Headteacher's Power to Exclude

3.1. Only the Executive Director/Headteacher can exclude a child and this must be on disciplinary grounds. A child may be excluded for one or more fixed periods (up to a maximum of 15 school days in a single academic year), or permanently.

3.2. A fixed period exclusion does not have to be for a continuous period. In exceptional cases, usually where further evidence has come to light, a fixed period exclusion may be extended or converted to a permanent exclusion.

3.3. Children whose behaviour at lunchtime is disruptive may be excluded from the school lunchroom premises for the duration of the lunchtime period.

3.4. The behaviour of children outside school can be considered as grounds for exclusion. This will be a matter of judgement for the Headteacher in accordance with the school's published Behaviour for Learning Policy.

3.5. When establishing the facts in relation to an exclusion the Headteacher must apply the normal standard of proof, i.e. 'on the balance of probabilities' it is more likely than not that a fact is true, rather than the criminal standard of 'beyond reasonable doubt'.

4. Children who have Special Educational Needs & Disabilities - SEND

4.1. The Headteacher must take account of the non-binding UK statutory duties in relation to Special Educational Needs (SEN) when administering the exclusion process. This includes having regard to the SEN Code of Practice.

4.3. In those cases where a child who has Special Educational Needs is likely to be excluded, the school will try every practicable means to avoid the need for exclusion.

5. Vulnerable Children

5.1. Appropriate steps will be taken to seek to avoid their exclusion.

5.2. Student support services will be involved at the earliest opportunity whenever a child in seems likely to be excluded.

5.4. Children who are vulnerable or who have faced specific child safeguarding issues have particular rights of appeal if they are excluded and the Headteacher will take all necessary steps to make sure that these rights are respected and that appropriate information is shared with agencies, parents and carers.

6. The Run Up to a Possible Exclusion

6.1. In those cases where an exclusion seems likely to occur, the school will:

- try to warn parents/carers in writing that the child is at risk of exclusion
- if time allows, arrange a meeting with the parents to plan how to support the child and avoid the need for exclusion
- take account of the views of the child
- keep written notes of all verbal warnings to the child and advice to parents and carers
- involve the student support services and/or other agencies as appropriate.

7. When to Consider Exclusion

7.1. Exclusion will be used sparingly in response to serious breaches of school policy or law.

Normally the decision to exclude a child will only be taken if:

- there have been serious breaches of the school's Behaviour for Learning Policy and

- there is a danger that allowing the child to remain in school will seriously harm the education or welfare / health and safety of the child or others
- a range of alternative strategies has been tried before excluding the child

7.2. However, a permanent exclusion may be given for a first / single offence, for example in the event of serious, actual or threatened violence, using or selling illegal substances, and posting information online that brings the school's reputation into disrepute.

7.3. Before reaching the decision to exclude a child, the Headteacher will:

- consider all the relevant facts and such evidence as may be available to support the allegations made, taking into account the school's Behaviour and Equalities Policies and the need to apply those policies consistently
- allow the child to give his or her own version of events
- check whether the incident may have been provoked, for example, by racial or sexual harassment
- consult others, as appropriate

7.4. If the Headteacher is satisfied, on the balance of probabilities, that the child did what he or she is alleged to have done and that exclusion is the appropriate sanction given the nature of the issue, the Headteacher may exclude the child. (Only the Executive Director/Headteacher can exclude a child from school).

8. Lunchtime Exclusion

8.1. Children whose behaviour at lunchtime is disruptive may be excluded from the school lunchroom for the duration of the lunchtime period.

9. Fixed Term Exclusion

9.1. The Headteacher can exclude a child for up to 15 days in any one school year.

9.2. Individual exclusions will be for the shortest time necessary, because any exclusion makes it difficult for the child to reintegrate into the school.

9.3. The reasons for fixed term exclusion are:

- to make it clear to the child that a particular behaviour is unacceptable, because it affects not only the right of others to a safe and secure environment but also interferes with the opportunities for learning
- to support school discipline and to act as a clear statement to all children that certain behaviour is unacceptable
- to ensure that parents/carers know of the behaviour and are involved in controlling it.

9.4. In all cases where a child is excluded for up to but less than six days, the school will take reasonable steps to set and mark work that is accessible and achievable outside of school.

9.5. Only in the most exceptional circumstances will the Headteacher exclude a child for a first or one-off offence. Such exceptional circumstances might include carrying an offensive weapon, using or supplying an illegal drug, sexual misconduct or serious actual/ threatened violence against another child or a member of staff, and posting information online that brings the school's reputation into disrepute.

10. Permanent Exclusion

10.1. Permanent exclusion is an extremely serious step to take. The Executive Director/Headteacher will normally only consider such action if:

- in response to a serious breach, or persistent breaches, of the school's Behaviour Policy
- where allowing the child to remain in school would seriously harm the education or welfare of the child or others in the school
- the child has been offered a full range of services and strategies designed to maintain that child's inclusion in school
- there is evidence that previous plans and strategies have been consistently applied but brought about no significant improvement in the child's behaviour.

10.2. Permanent exclusion is usually the final step in the process for dealing with disciplinary offences. It is an acknowledgement by the School that it has exhausted all available strategies for dealing with the child.

11. Exclusion Procedure

11.1. Whenever a Headteacher excludes a child they must, without delay, notify parents of the period of the exclusion and the reasons for it.

11.2. They must also, without delay, provide parents with the following information in writing:

- the reasons for the exclusion
- the period of a fixed period exclusion or, for a permanent exclusion, the fact that it is permanent
- parents' right to make representations about the exclusion to the Executive Director/Headteacher and how the child may be involved in this
- how any representations should be made

11.3. If alternative provision is being arranged (internal suspension) then the following information must be included:

- the start date for any provision of full-time education that has been arranged for the child during the exclusion
- the start and finish times of any such provision, including the times for morning and afternoon sessions where relevant
- the location at which the provision will take place
- any information required by the child to identify the person he / she should report to on the first day.
- it must be provided without delay and no later than 48 hours before the provision is due to start

11.4. The failure of a Headteacher to give notice of the information above by the required time does not relieve the Headteacher of the duty to serve the notice. A notice is not made invalid solely because it has not been given by the required time.

11.5. Parents/carers must be informed where a fixed period exclusion has been extended or converted to a permanent exclusion. In such cases the Headteacher must write again to the parents explaining the reasons for the change and providing any additional information required.

11.6. Effective methods for providing the information may include email or text message; giving the notice directly to the parents; or sending the information home with the excluded child. Where information is sent home with a child, Headteachers should consider sending a duplicate copy by an alternative method or confirming that the information has been received.

11.7. Headteachers should ensure that information provided to parents/carers is clear and easily understood. Where the parents'/carers first language is not English consideration should be given, where practical, to translating the letter or taking additional steps to ensure that the details of the exclusion and parents'/carers right to make representations to the Executive Director/Headteacher have been understood.

12. The Governing Body's (Executive Director's Duty) to Consider an Exclusion

12.1. The Executive has a duty to consider parents'/carers representations about an exclusion. The requirements on a governing body to consider an exclusion depend upon a number of factors.

12.2. The Executive Director may delegate their functions with respect to the consideration of an exclusion decision to a sub-committee consisting of at least three members including a member for the SLT.

12.3. The governing body must consider the reinstatement of a permanently excluded child within 15 school days of receiving notice of the exclusion.

13. Reintegration into School

13.1. The Headteacher will convene a planning meeting to discuss and make plans for the reintegration of a child after an extended exclusion. The meeting will make the necessary preparations for the child's return to school and will involve the parents/carers and the child as well as key members of school staff. In some cases it may be useful to include other agencies if they are directly involved in supporting the child.

13.2. The meeting will consider all aspects of reintegrating the child, including any modifications to the timetable or the provision of additional support. Any previous plans will be revised and new targets agreed. If there were no plans prior to the exclusion one will be drawn up. All plans will include elements of a contract between the parties involved so that the child will know how to achieve success, the school will set realistic targets and review dates will be set. The meeting will also consider whether the child has SEN and whether enough is being done to support those needs.

14. National Standard List of Reasons for Exclusions

This list provides descriptors of reasons for exclusions and the main reason for exclusion. The 12 categories should cover the main reasons for exclusions and the 'other' category should only be used in exceptional circumstances. Appendix 1

15. Monitoring and Review

15.1. This policy is a working document. Therefore, it is open to change and restructure as and when appropriate.

15.2. This policy will be reviewed bi-annually by the Senior Leadership Team in School.

Fixed Term Exclusion: Information for Parents/Carers

Hearing that your child has been fixed term excluded from school can be distressing for parents and knowing what rights and responsibilities you have as a parent can help. This leaflet answers some of the many questions you may have.

Headteachers do not exclude a child lightly. A school will usually have tried a number of other actions before excluding a child. It is always helpful if the school and parents/carers work together over an exclusion in order to avoid repeat exclusions.

Q What does a Fixed Period Exclusion (FX) mean?

A The Headteacher has decided that because of your child's behaviour he/she cannot attend school for a period as a punishment.

Q Do I have any say in the matter?

You can of course discuss the decision with the Headteacher who must consider anything you want to say but the rules vary according to how long the exclusion last:

1---5 days in a term (add all the days together if more than 1 exclusion)

The Executive Director/Headteacher must consider anything you wish to say and may meet you. They cannot reinstate your child (ie overturn the exclusion) but might put a note on file if they did not agree with the exclusion.

There is no time limit but it should be reasonably prompt.

The Executive Director/Headteacher can either uphold the exclusion or reinstate your child.

If the exclusion is over and the Executive Director/Headteacher do not uphold it, they will record this on the child's file.

Q What happens to my child's education during a FX?

For the first 5 days of any exclusion, you are responsible for your child's whereabouts during school hours.

Q What about schoolwork?

The school is responsible for setting and marking work during this period and you may be asked to collect and deliver it.

Q The letter I received refers to a "reintegration meeting". What is this?

A reintegration meeting is intended to help your child return to school successfully.

Q When will the meeting take place and who must attend?

The Headteacher must arrange a meeting for any child excluded from school which should take place the morning they return to school. Parents must be present along with the excluded child.

Q What if I cannot attend on the day the school has set the meeting.

The school should as far as possible try to arrange the interview at a time and date convenient to you and the school.

Q What will happen if I do not attend?

The exclusion cannot be extended, but it may make a successful return for your child more difficult. Additionally, your failure to attend will be recorded and could be considered a factor for permanent exclusion in future due to lack of parental support should another incident occur requiring a fixed period of exclusion.

Q Can I get help with dealing with my child's behaviour?

If you feel that the relationship between you and your child is breaking down, and that you are losing control over him or her, IBSB Student Support Services is available to help with student meetings, parents meetings, and student-parent meetings. Parents can contact student support services to ask for a meeting at the following address: studentcounselor@ibsb.ro

Q My child has SEN, does that make a difference to how the school deals with excluding them?

Exclusions should be the last resort for a child with SEN. Under the Disability Discrimination Act (DDA) disabled children should not be excluded for reasons connected to their disability.

If your child has Special Educational Needs it might be helpful for the SENCO (Special Educational Needs Coordinator) to be at some meetings.
